Plan for the Years

There are so many many souls that go
Most gallantly and tall to meet old age:
So many who pin courage over woe,
And such a throng of silent ones who wage,
W ith heads held high, a war on doubts and fears,
And oh, so many bearing flags of song,
That, Self, we must, in going down the years,
Refuse to be less brave and gay and strong!

And let us learn to keep an open mind,
A sense of humor and a reverent soul
And never be too busy to be kind--
Playing so valiantly this strange new role
That watching ones who love their youth can say,
I should not mind so, growing old that way!

We present

SUPER WOMEN OF

THIS is a tale in picture and story of the events of the present year, portraying the traditions of the past and the simple pleasures of daily life, the fulfillments of ambitions and friendships, whose brightness grows dim only when memories fail.

This is a tale of fair ladies who lived when our songs were unsung; this is a tale of fair ladies who shall live when our songs are forgotten. This is a tale of fair ladies so wise, so pitying, so learned—they laughed at the years; a tale of ladies so faithful, so faithless, so fair—the years only smiled and remembered.

To women—changing, yet ever changeless—we lift eyes filled with wonder to win the courage to dare.

Dedication

IT is with respect and admiration that we of the Senior Class, as an expression of our appreciation for one whose genuine interest in our college was demonstrated during years of unstinted service, whose scholarly attainment and ability go unchallenged, and whose nobleness of character enriches the life of those who know him to

DR. JULIUS ISAAC FOUST

with respectful and affectionate recognition of his long service and devotion, dedicate this issue of Pine Needles.

Queen Elizabeth

Queen Elizabeth was one of the greatest sovereigns of England. Bold, courageous, full of self-reliance and self-confidence, she devoted herself to the welfare and glory of her country, a living embodiment of its noblest and best qualities. Her unique combination of the characteristics of a pleasure-loving queen and an imperious sovereign evoked and stimulated the poetic, enterprising, and warlike genius of her people, rousing them to the glorious political and literary achievements which marked her reign.

Helen of Troy

Some have called her the most beautiful woman in the world, the woman with "the face that launched a thousand ships"—the fair Helen. Poets and dreamers of dreams have said that she yet lives; that loveliness such as hers could not die but must have eternal life, even as the smile of the springtime or the laughter of the sea. Legends tell us of her wanderings from shore to shore—ageless, divine, immortal, as eternal as Love itself. The golden Helen, typifying the all-engulfing love that laughs alike at reason and romance, lives and shall live while men are men.

Senior Class Song

TO the dear old class of '36
The class of lavender and white,
We'll cherish, honor, and protect
Ideals that stand for right;
We'll fight the fight, we'll do our best
For loyal friendships true,
We'll ever and forever strive
For the College of N. C. U.

Senior Class Poem

You who have led us here, to this
Our last estate of youth
Think you that we are brave
Who stand in this first hour
Seeing the stars—
Who until now have seen
But their reflections?
Think you that we are brave
Who pause in this first hour
Hearing at last the lift
Of all creation's breathing—
Who until now have heard
But our own whispers?
Think you that we are brave
Who stand alone
In this far waited moment
Knowing our nothingness?
We who so long
Have pressed against cloistered bounds—
Reached for the rein of toil—
We are not brave
this day.

Class History

LELA HOOKER
Historian

WHEN the freshman class landed at the college in the fall of 1932 the world was, by no means, in a peaceful state. We had planned to come to North Carolina College, but when we arrived we found that we were in the Woman's College of the University of North Carolina. We thought we were to attend a college strictly for women, but we found our classes interspersed with gentlemen.

With so many changes afoot we were expected to be bewildered; but being such an unusual class, we adapted ourselves to the various innovations of the four years with utmost complacency. We were too slow to become very flustered. In fact we were so slow that we waited until too late to elect our freshman class officers and had to be ruled by the freshman commission, appointed by our counselors and house presidents. The leaders of the commission were: Betty Griesinger, Gibbs Morresy, and Mary Jane Couser.

As if things weren't topsy turvy enough, in the spring of our freshman year the banks failed. But even this did not bother us much, for we were poor before we came and have been poor ever since, and feel quite able to cope with any situation.

However slow the class may be, we have performed all the normal ceremonies and acts with surprising success. Our sophomore year produced tan jackets, the Christmas pageant, and the daisy chain; our junior year was filled with big-sister-little-sister activities, junior rings, "Junior Shoppe", "Junior-Senior"; our senior year was filled with more serious responsibilities too many to relate.

Now for more interesting events of our career. Our freshman year was started quite colorfully with the burning of the library our first night on the campus. In spite of the difficulty in finding our way out of our new abodes we managed to reach the fire before the firemen. "'Twas said that a certain male member of the faculty hoisted a certain lady member upon the top of McIver for a better view of it".

The Student Curriculum Committee came into existence this year, and the Vesper Choir was organized by the "Y" under the direction of Mr. Thompson. This inaugurated the annual candle-light program of Christmas carols given by the choir, and this established another tradition of the college.

As a whole our class was an unduly noisy and silly group that year—performing many antics about which we now would think twice before indulging. But who can blame us during the big snow storm for sliding down College Avenue in chairs and laundry baskets? Even Christiana McFadyen was among the ring leaders. Who would ever forget the entertainment furnished us by Tanky Holton and her banjo playing, and "Queenie" Poole singing "Egyptian Ella". We are greatly indebted to Gibbs Morresy as her contribution was the class song.

After spending endless hours delving into the anatomy of the frog and more endless ones absorbing Schevill, Ferdinand, A History of Europe, pp. 1———et al., we resorted to our most popular indoor sport—dancing with the "coeds" in the gym every night until seven-thirty to the strains of "Goofus" and "Pink Elephants". We were a most impressionable class. Remember how every single member succumbed to the charms of Richard Halliburton? Remember the sprained shoulders and ankles the more vivacious ones acquired when they attempted Martha Graham's "Imitation of Immorality"? Our artistic abilities were given chance to develop by participation in the college choir and in the freshman one-act plays. I hardly need mention "The Young Man Shows His Pants", alias "The Old Lady Shows Her Medals".

During our sophomore year two sets of officers were elected. First semester: Mary Clare Stokes, president; Rachel Dunnagan, vice-president; Harriet McGoogan, secretary, and Blanche Gwyn, treasurer. Second semester: Mary Louise Shepherd, president; Olga Mallo, vice-president; Bibbie Yates, secretary, and Elizabeth Barineau, treasurer. Miriam McFadyen served as daisy chain chairman.

True to form little of interest happened this year. However, two new committees were organized—the student activities committee and the Honor Board. The society halls were renovated after their useful service as a library.

One phase of our attempt at intellectuality our sophomore year was not altogether successful. Our chapel program "mist" was quite as foggy to the seniors (who were supposed to have understood such subjects) as to ourselves. After entertaining the seniors in the spring with a formal garden party, we won the distinction of making the largest, prettiest, and the heaviest daisy chain ever before constructed. After this last contribution, the remaining members of the class, tired, but none the less happy, departed for home to recover from bug bites, grass stain, and poison ivy.

With the beginning of our junior year the New Deal was put into effect. Spectacular changes had taken place in the administration of the college and many changes were to come in other phases of campus life. Dr. Jackson became our Dean of Administration and Dr. Geneva Drinkwater, our Dean of Women. The Student Government inaugurated Loyalty Week, a new tradition for the college. The Student Curriculum Committee and the Student Activities Committee were combined. A new chapel committee, on which there were, besides faculty members, student representatives from each class was organized. The college choir, which sings in the devotional exercises held on Tuesdays, was organized. Furthermore, the long-awaited cut system was adopted. Through the efforts of several faculty members a chapter of Phi Beta Kappa was installed at the college. We are proud of two members of our class—Elizabeth Barineau and Christiana McFadyen who were initiated this year.

The Junior Class was led by Katherine Sikes, president; Bibbie Yates, vice-president; Mary Glenn, secretary, and Harriet McGoogan, treasurer. Caroline Parker had charge of Junior Shoppe.

Our Sophomore year we had tried to be intellectual. Our Junior year we went high-brow with after-dinner coffee, new china, and service. We even attempted to stop wearing anklets to dinner, and really looked a little more respectable on campus. The societies gave formal teas, and the dances became strictly formal with "very soft and very sweet" music.

More interest and spirit in campus affairs was manifested by our class than ever before—an enthusiasm culminating in the never-to-be-forgotten snake dance in celebration of campus elections for the next year.

By our senior year the New Deal became firmly entrenched. Miss Harriet Elliott was made our new Dean of Women. At Silver Pines many new rules governing our social life were passed. Not only were there to be several informal dances during the year with real orchestras, but each class was to have its own formal dance. The College Tavern was established.

The class officers are: Louise Bell, president; Mary Fitzgerald, vice-president; Helen Jones, secretary, and Ruby Jane Keller, treasurer.

Though we have been working hard we have taken time off for the Senior Prom, and many week-ends home and to our fellow colleges. Even the organizations have managed to take a few nice trips—Press Convention, Pinehurst, Chapel Hill, and the like. However, as a good-time class we may be characterized, we have developed an air of gravity, due probably to the serious proposition of graduation and to our worry over our latest birthdays. The majority of the unattached members may be found most any time reading articles concerning the percentage of old maids in the adult population.

Seriously speaking, the class of '36 has much on its record to be proud of. As a whole, our class has one of the highest scholastic ratings in comparison with former classes. As a rule there are only one or maybe two outstanding intellects in a class; but this class has quite a number of them. Usually classes have been divided into three separate groups; the intellectuals, the office holders, and the workers. Again we have changed—the so-called intellectuals not only make high marks, but hold a majority of the campus offices. Not only do they fill the legislature, judicial board, and all other organizations, but they work—and work hard too. Most of the seniors doing N. Y. A., C. B., and dining-room work have high records. In contrast to former classes all the campus leaders with one exception (and she is to become a veteran North Carolinian) are from our own state. In this respect we are a truly representative class of the University of North Carolina.

LELA HOOKER.

Senior Class Prophecy

THE ALUMNAE NEWS, SPRING, 1946

Class of 1936 Tenth Anniversary Issue

CLAIRE BOISEAU, Alumnae Secretary

ELIZABETH BARINEAU
Prophetess

TO all the dear girls who have gone out from our college and especially to graduates of that outstanding class of 1936, I bring loving greetings from the Alumnae Association. How it thrills me to be able to give to all of you news of your cherished schoolmates, scattered over the world though they be! A few months ago I was marking on my globe all of the places in which our girls live, and my!—how many there were! Then I thought, "Wouldn't it be lovely to take my movie camera and visit as many of our graduates as possible, getting pictures of them to show the 'home folks'?" And such a happy time I've had! Let me tell your about it.

Girls, can you imagine the thrill of getting in an aeroplane—the first time for me—with Dalton Wright, my camera "man," and of being piloted by Elizabeth Dowdle and Mavis Mitchell far across the country! My ears still ring with the messages Janice Tetterton of our commercial department and Dr. Mary Reynolds Bradshaw, one of the English teachers, sent by me. Bobby Smith came running over from the gym to urge me especially to see Nell Stallings, Mary Horney, and Ruth Brown, who have set up winter Olympic games at the South Pole. According to my trusty globe, we were to take first a very zigzag trip westward over the United States. Down through North Carolina, then, I went to Concord where the Davis sisters are winning glory for their Alma Mater as leaders of a new school of poetry. They have restored rhyme and even meaning to the verse form. Another jump carried me to the very heart of the Blue Ridge Mountains where Mary Corbett and Gwendolyn Zimmerman are collecting data on North Carolina mountain ballads and folk dances. You should see their pictures demonstrating for me those they have found! Our pilgrimage then carried us over the mountains to Harrogate, Tennessee, to see Kent Blair who is doing graduate work at Lincoln Memorial University on a Sociology fellowship she got in 1936. With a hop backward into Georgia I was delighted to stay in Atlanta with Kathleen Capps, an important caterer. I got some happy surprises at her house. First, in the Atlanta Journal I read a syndicated column of the O. O. McIntyre type by Evelyn Cavileer and a comic strip by Mary Agnes Garret. Its name was something like "You're dog-gone tootin'." Then, what should Kathleen tell me but that Lucile Byrd is the charming wife of the president of Monroe Female College at Forsyth, Georgia.

Leaving Georgia, we went over the loveliest mountains and plains, second in beauty only to our girls, down to Mississippi where I found Margaret Mayhew, Adelaide Porter's secretary. Adelaide has reduced Mississippi's illiteracy rate to the lowest in the country, arousing the great jealousy of Eliza Cromartie, Superintendent of Public Instruction in North Carolina. In New Orleans, the city of romance, whom should I find but Helen Lynch and Myrtle Lunsford running a French restaurant! Drusilla Martin works for them and speaks French to all the guests.

On special invitation from the former Mary Glenn, Sarah Boyles, Rosalie Eanes, and Edythe Latham, I went next to visit their club, Faculty Wives of Carlton College, Missouri. Their husbands were so sweet, too! Mary Ruth McNeil teaches there—something horrible about sex. And I had thought her a nice girl.

Since I had already broken all laws of maidenly shyness in taking an aeroplane trip, I decided to go one step further and visit Chicago, that great city of crime. When I got there I was terribly disappointed to find such a peaceful place until I learned that Doris Wilkins, the detective, had done it all. In explaining her success to me, she said that she owed her powers of keen analysis to her college days when she tried to figure out what her roommate was going to do or say next.

From Chicago I migrated westward to another city of my dreams, Hollywood. And really, Clark Gable was not the only attraction for me there! I knew well that I should find Lela Hooker making her debut on the screen after several years' work in the legitimate theatre, Katherine Keister as a movie producer, and Nina Penton, May West's successor.

San Francisco, the last stop on my native shores, furnished even more happy surprises than any place. At a lecture, where I got to hear Eloise Taylor talk on the economic situation among the celery growers of Indiana since the ban on loud noise at meals, suddenly I felt someone looking at me. Turning around, I found myself facing three lorgnettes, those of Louise Bell, Ada Williams, and Miriam Miller, all wealthy society matrons living in the city. They were lovely to me. As we gossiped I learned that Blanche Gwyn is managing a dude ranch at Horse's Neck, Wyoming. They say that her favorite horses are named Miriam, Josephine, and B. Frank.

Very sadly I had to take leave of my two pilots and send them home with an aeroplane load of films I had used. Dalton and I then went by boat to South America, being sure to select the ship on which Clarice Whitaker was dietitian. On the way down I persuaded the captain to stop for a while at the Galapagos Islands, situated just on the Equator, where I had heard that Margaret Smith and Frances Foust were studying the commercial importance of land turtles in an uninhabited land. I did not expect, though, to find Dr. Frances Tate doing a noble work treating conjunctivitis among the sea lions of Galapagos. Going further south we finally reached Santiago, Chile. This place I was anxious to visit because Elizabeth Sloop and her husband had just set up the newest inventions in soda fountain fixtures there.

From South America over to Australia all I had to think about was how much I wanted to see the rest of the girls and how seasick I was. It was a great relief to have one friend on that continent so that I didn't have to go straight up to Asia. Beatrice Knight's family has moved to Australia and is getting rich raising and training kangaroos for circuses. Soon it was necessary to try the ocean again, though, and I found myself en route to China. Really, my only purpose in going there was to watch people eat with chopsticks, but through the American consul I learned of a psychiatric hospital some North Carolinians established in Manchukuo. Elizabeth Landing and Mary Louise Myrick are psychiatrists at it, and Freddie Collett and Sarah Ambrose, technicians. They are having a wonderful time.

I consoled myself for the fewness of friends I got to see in Asia by the thoughts of how many I knew would be in Africa and Europe. From Manchukuo, then, I sailed to Ethiopia in Africa. There I found such a lovely group: Susan White, Alice Knott, and Dorothy Poole, making investigations into the psychological reactions of Ethiopian children to the Italian war some years ago. Susan confided to me that Queenie Poole wasn't much help because she was always leaving Ethiopia trying to find Egyptian Ella. I didn't have the courage to brave the Sahara, but while I was in Ethiopia a letter came from Doralyne Hodgin whose husband is a missionary just at the edge of the desert. She said that a few days before, Edith Lambeth and Mary Motsinger had come there to make experiments in their study of the mortality rate of the maiden-hair fern in certain arid regions of the world.

It seemed strange to go from Ethiopia to Italy, but I especially wanted to find at Rome Marie Parker, secretary to the American ambassador. An awfully funny thing happened. She asked, "Wouldn't you like to go see the sights?" and where she took me was to see Mary Louise Shepherd, who in her spare time is pondering over the engineering attainments of the ancient Romans. I never did quite understand it. Leaving Italy, I barely stopped by Geneva, Switzerland, for even if I had had plenty of time, Elizabeth Yates, writer for the Associated Press, was too busy to talk to me long. One thing that she told me made me go dashing over to Moscow. I just had to hear Hilda Dowdy's American Chorus on a concert tour in Russia. The members of the group whom I knew were Jane Gaw, Louise George, Virginia Christy, Elizabeth Buhmann, Ann Crawley, and Lillian Hartness. Lyal Maie Reynolds was with them as their interpreter in Russia.

One of my most enjoyable experiences was coming by Berlin where I found Mary Catherine Proctor in the rank of under-ambassador to Germany. While I was there I managed to see also Elizabeth Polston, whose new mathematical theory that all things are by nature irrelevant has completely ruined poor old Einstein. Then to Paris for a life of gaiety! I intended to visit Christiana McFayden and Selma Whitehead who I thought were studying there, but I found that they were in the south of France making first-hand investigations for their work on "Obscure Frenchmen of the Revolutionary Period." I did get to see Jennie Harrison, though, who with Ione Wright is a model in Mildred Duff's exclusive dress shop. Jennie has spoken French so much that she has forgotten most of her English.

Dear England had to be my next destination. You should see the film I got of Alice Dunlap and Mary Elizabeth Bitting being presented at court. It was gorgeous. But I soon turned my mind to the more scholarly aspect of life and visited Oxford. I found Martha Thomas a Fellow there, achieving astounding success and attracting attention even to the point of starting a literary war by proving that O. Henry is quoted more than Chaucer. For my last stop before leaving Europe, I went up to Dunkiddie, Scotland, to see Clara Gattis, wife of Sir Angus McTight.

As we neared the United States some days later, I guess I acted rather queerly or something. At any rate, the first thing I knew I was being held at the Customs House for a lot of questioning. I didn't care though, because through this accident I saw Isabelle Gray who is secretary to the customs inspector and very useful because of her ability to talk with foreigners. One person I particularly wanted to see was Ruby Keller who has become so rich and famous that her outlook is no longer Gray. She is now the successor to M. G. Eberhart, whose detective stories told by a nurse were so popular some years ago. Ruby took me everywhere I wanted to go—first by the palatial home of Gene Parker who, in partnership with Susie Sugg, has made millions on an invention of hair-waving flu'd that dries immediately. Then we went to see Lois Swett, Eleanor Nunn, Kathryn Ginsberg, and Rachel Dunnagan and their dancing school for wayward girls. These four friends of ours, by the way, were publicly thanked by the mayor of New York for their services in reducing delinquency. While I was still in the city I read thrilling news in the paper: Josephine Perry and Cornelia Snow who had been making archaeological investigations in the region above New York City announced that they had found the authentic wooden leg of Peter Stuyvesant. My! I was proud of them!

I wanted to go up to Boston to see Julia Rice, who has made a real profession for herself out of preparing girls for their social debuts. According to her advertisement, she helps them with everything "from the proper costume to the proper courtesy." I had to content myself with hearing about her, though, for I was determined to see Helen Jones and Lucille Hinton, considered the best professional dancers of the day, perform in Philadelphia. Then I came on down to Baltimore where Betty Griesinger and her partner in a law firm are very successfully dealing with the international aspects of commercial law.

Washington was one place I was all excited over visiting because of an interesting new project some of our friends are working on there. Martha Kiser, Caroline Parker, Elizabeth Shore, and Margaret Neister have established a very exclusive kindergarten for the children of government officials. They declare that they are getting wonderful training in diplomacy because they have to spend their time stopping political fights among their pupils.

Coming back to my dear home state, I took an eastern route because I felt that I must go by Wilson to see Mary Clare Stokes. She is one of the most popular of the young married set in the state, and for about the last five years has been re-elected every year chairman of the Debutante Ball. When I saw her, she was running around in a flurry having a fit over getting it ready. It seemed like old times! On the way to Greensboro, then, I stopped at Duke University to see how much progress Frances Upchurch was making on her Ph.D. I found her just completing a most scholarly dissertation. It was on "The Causes of Superabundant Rainfall on Week-ends in the Vicinity of Greensboro, North Carolina."

Girls, the most wonderful part of a trip is coming back home again. How happy I was, on arriving at Greensboro, to be met at the train by Mausleat Garrard and Polly Miller, representatives of the state P. T. A. and the Alumnae Association! And then that speech I made, introduced by the Alumnae Association president, Blanche Newsome Hardy. I shall never forget how Miriam MacFadyen, a counselor at the college, sobbed from sheer emotion on seeing the moving pictures of her classmates. And there was that banquet where I sat beside Pat Knight, who is running for the State Senate. As we discussed current affairs, Pat told me how Katherine Sikes had just about succeeded in cleaning up the political situation in North Carolina. "But," she remarked, "Kat can't do much as long as the system is the way it is." I must say more about that delightful banquet. Such beautiful bright green beans, grown by Mary Kendrick and her husband on the college farm and needing no added coloring. And the dessert was that delectable Indian Club Pudding, which Harriet McGoogan, the assistant dietician, has made the most popular dish in the college by leaving the ingredients out of it. Such supreme happiness I never before felt.

'Twas the end of a perfect trip, the memory of which I shall cherish in my heart of hearts. Ah, Class of 1936, nobly are you playing your part in spreading far and wide the ideals of our college.

Junior Class Song

College days pass so quickly,
Faster than we realize.
The road to our success is rugged,
But onward we will ever strive.

We are the class of 1937 of W. C. U. N. C.
Staunch we'll stand through all the years,
For the Blue and White we'll give three cheers,
And as the years go quickly flying by
We'll strive to reach our goal.
Let's raise our voices joyfully to W. C. U. N. C.

Freshmen, Sophomores, or Juniors,
Seniors wrapped in dignity,
It makes no difference what your name is
This our song will always be.

We are the class of 1937 of W. C. U. N. C.
We will through all our college days
Seek "Honor Non Honores."
And when the time has come for us to part
We will forever be faithful, true, in all we do to

Sophomore Class Song

Arise! Arise! And sing of '38
Ye daughters one and all.
Lift your voices, answer loud and clear
Alma Mater's Call.

We'll stand together as we pledge,
Our love and loyalty;
And our hearts we'll ever turn,
Green and white to thee.

We'll take our place, and bravely we will stand,
Our hands firm clasped in thine,
As down the years thy children march
In one unbroken line.

Freshman Song

Seeking beauty, strength, and wisdom,
In a never-ending quest,
We, the class of thirty-nine,
Cherish ideals pure and fine,
Seeking, giving of our best,
As we march toward Life's bright crest.

With all the zeal of our courageous young hearts,
With all the loyalty they hold,
We'll trust in God to guide us as forward we go;
We'll ever strive to reach our goal.
Oh College dear, may we bring honor to you!
Thirty-nine is loyal to you!
We're strong to dare to do.

George Sand

Amendine Lucile Aurore Dupin Dudevant—known to history, literature, and the annals of super-women as George Sand She was France's best known woman, and her fame spread even beyond the shores of Europe. Having written eight hours a day, she was heralded as the most prolific woman writer in literature's history. She is not remembered for her writings alone. Hers is probably the most powerful individuality displayed by any modern French woman. To a youth and womanhood of storm and stress succeeded an old age of serene activity, then of calm decay. In naming George Sand, we name someone even more exceptional than a great genius. Her rise to eminence in the literature of her century is, if not without a parallel, yet absolutely without a precedent.

Song

Ah! Truth, whose light throughout the countless years
Has been passed down to us from soul to soul,
We seek Thee, tho' through toil and pain and tears,
Until we find Thee, that we may be whole.
A spark of Thee is born within each breast;
We strive to feed that tiny altar fire
With other sparks we find upon our quest,
O Aletheia, of our pure desire.

Thou art an ideal, boundless, unattained,
While yet we strive to live Thee every day;
Thou art in all, and yet cannot be gained
Save by long search, and weary, and the way
Winds by strongholds of ignorance and sin.
But seeking Thee in all we know, at last
We'll break the gates that there may enter in Thy light of understanding when our search is past.

Song

Shoulder to shoulder, hearts filled with devotion,
With purpose not aimless but earnest and true,
United by all the ties of deep friendship,
We bring, O Adelphi, our homage to you.

We pledge to you loyalty long and unending,
Loyalty which will be firm, which will be true,
Devotion we pledge you that never shall perish,
And love which through all coming time will endure.

With courage undaunted we'll march ever onward,
Up heights to be won along parts strange and new;
But now and forever one great band of sisters
We'll be, O Adelphia, still loyal to you.

Song

Dike, who speaks with reverberant grandeur,
Through listening portals of true womanhood,
Into thy vastness, we come now entrusting
Powers as yet latent with will's hope imbued;
Glad for the toiling, the common endeavor,
Glad for the wideness of ways to be won,
To do for the deed's sake, still keeping the vision,
Trusting secure in the lives 'round us thrown.

Stamped with that beauty and light of thy image
We would go forth with a creative faith;
Builders potential and makers of highways,
Easing for others the paths they may take.
And as the sunset gives place to the sunrise,
After us cometh the child of the dawn
To fashion the fabric of dreams scarce completed
And serve Thee forever, O Light, farther on.

Song

In joy and praise come let us sing
With anthem clear and strong;
Let all Cornelian voices ring
In free, exultant song.
Of pride for that fair name we bear,
Cornelia, glorious word,
To make us gladly do and dare,
Whene'er 'tis thought, whene'er 'tis heard.

We'll onward, upward ever more,
Our footsteps forward pressed;
Together move in sister-love
Upon the mountain's crest,
To gain the fair, wide, spreading view
Which round the mountain lies,
And give us understanding new,
Enlightening our eager eyes.

May Cornelia's name have ne'er a stain
From any daughter's deed.
For her, all glory will be given
And give her honor's meed;
For firm and staunch we'll ever stand
Unto each other true,
And loyal to her noble band,
Hers, yea, her own, our whole lives through.

Amelia Earhart

Amelia Earhart is a lady after our own heart. Her exploit flying the continent in nineteen hours without a single stop compels us to bow low to her in homage. The first woman to fly solo over the Atlantic, she was awarded the distinguished Flying Cross. Singularly modest, unassuming, and winsome, Miss Earhart's personality reveals itself only so far, then leaves one guessing. Youth, keeping a heart, a soul and a body that are wide open to all the rich opportunities of life is a part of Amelia Earhart's creed. As Lindbergh stands for the best of American manhood, so is America's womanhood well represented by Amelia Earhart.

Cleopatra

For nearly twenty centuries has Cleopatra dazzled the world with her beauty and fascinated mankind with her witchery. The personal fascination of the woman induced Pompey to undertake a war on her behalf, a war which resulted in the death of Ptolemy, and the crowning of Cleopatra, Queen of Egypt. Combining rare intellectual gifts with physical charms, she is immortal as one of the most fascinating women of all time. She has ever been a constant theme for artists, dramatists, and poets. Above all women of historic fame, Cleopatra is the embodied ideal of triumphant coquetry of subtle, intellectual ability.
